Contract history

MSCF was created in 2001 through the merger of the Minnesota Community College Faculty Association (MCCFA) and the United Technical College Educators (UTCE). Some contract language remains specific to the former units with former MCCFA language often referred to as “green” and former UTCE language referred to as “blue.”

Coverage
The MSCF contract, also known as the Master Agreement, stipulates the benefits and protections for all faculty teaching at a two-year Minnesota State college including temporary part time and adjunct faculty. The contract covers wages and benefits, as well as working conditions including academic control and freedom issues. It is negotiated by the MSCF negotiations committee, which consists of officers and rank and file members, and is ratified by the entire membership. All faculty, including probationary and temporary faculty, are entitled to the rights and benefits defined in the Master Agreement.

Contract enforcement
While all MSCF members have a vested interest in ensuring the terms of our contract are followed, the local grievance representatives are primarily responsible for ensuring contract compliance. In addition to advocating for members, grievance reps also conduct regular compliance checks, participate in local shared governance structures and work with MSCF field staff on filing grievances should the need arise. Grievance reps are your local contract experts. If you have any questions regarding wages, benefits or working conditions, your grievance rep is your first point of contact. Contact information for all grievance reps can be found on the website at www.mscfmn.org under Governance.
